International students

If you are planning on studying at UNSW or have been accepted to study at UNSW then there is a lot to think about before you arrive in Australia. Here you will find information about what you might need to consider.

Student Development International strongly recommends you arrive at least two weeks before university starts. This will allow you time to prepare for all your essential needs such as accommodation, banking and enrolment.

If you are an international student and under 18 years of age then you will need to consider further things when it comes to your accommodation and welfare. There are also some great FAQs for students and some FAQs for your parents or custodians.
